Water Update:

On October 22, 2011, the Municipality of Port Hope declared an emergency due to failed pumps at the Municipal Water Treatment Plant. Three of the five pumps have now been repaired and are running at original design capacity, and a supplementary portable pump is installed for operation as required. With these resources in place, the Municipality implemented a phased approach to resuming normal water consumption. Regular daily water use was resumed Monday November 7, 2011.
